In Conference Last Week

Phillips' last week visited Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police and after a lengthy conversation it was announced that every effort would be made to find out if there was any possible connection between the alleged attempt to kidnap Phillips and the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby.

Investigators from this office are in New York to question Frank Berg and investigate his activities, Col. Schwarzkopf said in his mid-morning bulletin.

"Max Phillips came to this office voluntarily," the bulletin continued, "and related his experience with Berg and his associates in 1925 when an attempted kidnapping of himself was frustrated by advance information.

Seek Possible Connection

The information surrendered by Max Phillips will be given the necessary attention for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the kidnappers responsible for the attempt upon him can be connected with this case."

The bulletin concluded with a general statement that the state police in charge of the investigation could not be responsible for statements concerning the case given from any other sources.

It said there was nothing new concerning a report that a coal had been found near the window from which the baby was taken. No other police departments, it added, had reported any definite progress.

New Mystery Ads
Star Speculation

NEW YORK, March 15—Two more mysterious advertisements appeared in the "personal" columns of New York newspapers today. There was speculation that they might have some connection with negotiations between Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby.

Each was signed "Jafsie," as were previous notes which have appeared.

One said "Money is ready—Jafsic."

The other, appearing in a Bronx publication, said:

"Money is ready. No cops. No secret service. No press. I come alone like the last time. Please call Jafsic."

Tombs Prisoner
Again Examined

NEW YORK, March 15—The mysterious John Smith who was questioned last week about the Lindbergh kidnapping and then moved from Tombs prison to West Side prison, today was taken to the office of Richard R. Patterson, commissioner of correction, for further examination.

It was learned that Smith, whose age, occupation and address have been withheld by police, was the subject yesterday of a conference of high police officials in West Side prison.

There was a report that Smith was to be taken from the municipal building to some point in New Jersey, possibly Hopewell.

Release.By The Associated Press
CLINTON, Iowa, March 15. One hundred thousand dollars stolen from the City National bank to-day by five robbers was recovered by John and Arvid Flood farmers on a farm three hours after the holdup.

The bandits are believed to have stopped at the farm, changed their clothes, thrown away their guns and left the money because of hot pursuit.

Four men, believed to have participated in the robbery were arrested later.

The five escaped from the bank with the money after binding 38 employees and customers in a rear room.

The men met Clyde Willett, janitor, when he opened a back door to file the furnace at 6:30 a.m.

Willett was set to work around the office to allay suspicion of his sash.

One of the gang stationed him self behind a front door and as each employee entered he was ordered to hold up his hands. The employees were bound and held in a directors' room.

At 8:30 a.m. in the time lock was released on the vault. The robbers united Assistant Cashiers C. P. Petty, John Nissen, and H. E. Kramer and forced them to open the vault.

The money, all in currency, was stuffed into a pillow case and the men departed through a rear door.

Police were told they entered a parked roadster, believed to have carried a Kentucky license.

Work in the third and fourth degrees were conferred on a class of 18 candidates by United Bethlehem grange, and members of Whetstone grange participated for the opening and closing of the meeting. Harry Warden, deputy master of Crawford county, scored the three granges in their work.

Guests included representatives from Mt. Olive, Bowling Green, Grand Prairie, Salt Rock and Montgomery granges. Following the work a social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Announcement was made of the second meeting of granges of the western section of the county March 23 when Mt. Olive grange will be host at its hall in Green Camp. dead were revealed. It became known that police had asked all keepers of incinerators, in hotels, apartment houses and city institutions to watch for bundles containing baby clothes.

When asked about this, police merely replied, in an official bulletin:

"No orders have been issued for any recheck of incinerators in this city."

Tonight it will be two weeks since the world famous infant was stolen from his crib. Police have exhausted hundreds of false clues, rumors and fantastic tales.

Advisers of the parents pinned their chief hope on possible opening of negotiations with the kidnappers through the undercover agents, Morris Rosner, Irving Blitz and Salvy Spite, but if these men have begun to solve the mystery, it is being kept dark. Rosner visited the Lindbergh home last night.

The latest "gang" to come under the police scrutiny was cleared quickly of all implication. Detectives had announced that a group of hoodlums had come from Denver by plane and engaged in "mysterious activities in and around New York."

Later they announced they had vindicated "Roma and associates" from any connection. They did not say who Roma was. In Denver, a Joseph R. Roma, reputed gang overlord, who recently took a plane trip to New Jersey, said any mention of his name was "Zilly."

The police checked and found nothing in reports that the baby was aboard a ship, that it was in houses in Baltimore, in Lexington, Ky., and in Jamaica, Queens.

but to insist that every person with any income whatever share it with a less fortunate neighbor.

Dozens of work suggestions and arguments pointing to the present as the most psychological time to have improvements made around the home were furnished workers. Building containing 125 work suggestions and a detailed instruction sheet were a part of every worker's kit.

After Dr. C. E. Turley of the Epworth M. E. church had invoked divine blessing on the efforts of the workers, W. D. Brown, manager of the chamber of commerce, gave detailed instructions. He told how the plan had been operated in other cities and how, in Munich, Ind., the unemployment among the building trades had been reduced from 70 to 30 per cent.

"We can be just as successful as other communities if every one works and cooperates in this movement," he asserted.

"Help those in distress to help themselves," said W. E. Schell, president of the chamber, urged a few moments later.

The drive was termed "an unselfish enterprise for our fellow men" by Asa Queen, chairman of the civic committee of the chamber of commerce, and as "one of the most deserving enterprises ever entered into by Marion citizens" by J. W. Llewellyn, commander of the Legion post.

Team captains were ordered to meet at the American Legion today at 8:30 a. m. to enable Clyde C. Caldwell, chairman of the Legion committee for the drive, to fill vacancies with substitute captains. Similar substitutions to workers to meet at the chamber of commerce were given by Mrs. Frank M. Knapp, president of the City Parent-Teacher council, Mrs. Grover Snyder and Mrs. J. B. Bray of the Federated Women's clubs.

To Maintain Bureau

The Federated Women's clubs will provide personnel to maintain an employment bureau indefinitely in the chamber of commerce offices to carry to a successful conclusion the accomplishments of the work solicitors. The bureau will act as a medium between the unemployed and the "created" jobs.

Some of the "arguments" placed in the hands of the workers last night follow:

"It is not enough to ask the individual contacted to have certain improvements made or work done; we must sell that individual upon the necessity of doing those things now which could easily be put off to some future date. The workers should try to convince every citizen of the necessity of putting his shoulder to the wheel and pushing forward.

"Community prices never fall for a long time to come. Substantial savings can be made at this time in making improvements along the lines suggested in the bulletins.

"Welfare funds, both public and private, are running low, and as citizens must do something to take care of those of our people who have been depending on these sources to keep soul and body together. How much better it is to give them employment rather than charity."

MOTHER'S STORY OF KIDNAPING REVEALED

Tells How Lindbergh Armed with Gun, Made Search.

Lindbergh had made frequent weekend trips to Hopkins, where he had stayed at the Morris Inn on the previous two weekends. Col. Lindbergh arrived later that day.

In the evening the rain developed a cold, which grew worse in the next two days. Whetstone, the butler, was sent to a drug store for medicine and waited with the doctor, who had been given work by the city at home. Later he went to the store to buy a thermometer, telling whoever waited on him it was to take a child's temperature.

On Tuesday morning, when the cold still lingered, Mrs. Lindbergh summoned Betty Gow from Eaglewood and she arrived about 1:30 p. m. with Betty attending to the child, the mother went for a walk in the afternoon and returned about 5 p. m.

Betty sewed an extraannel shirt for the child and he was put to bed about 7:30 p. m. When he was snugly tucked in, Mrs. Lindbergh left his room before Betty. The window had not yet been opened and the birds were still about half an hour later, while

Mrs. Lindbergh was sitting at her desk in the living room downstairs.

Betty stopped on her way to the kitchen to say that the child had gone to sleep.

Writing and listening for the sound of Col. Lindbergh's car, Mrs. Lindbergh once thought she heard a car wheel turn on the gravel driveway outside. She listened and concluded she was mistaken, for it was not until 20 minutes or so later that she heard his car approach.

They had dinner at the living room fire for a short time, then Mrs. Lindbergh went to her room and the child settled down to read. Getting ready for bed, Mrs. Lindbergh found she had left her tooth powder in the baby's bathroom. She went and got it without switching on the light.

About 10:30 Betty ran into her mistress' room and asked if Col. Lindbergh had taken the baby. Finding that Mrs. Lindbergh didn't know she ran out and sought the colonel. The mother following met her husband coming upstairs.

"Did you take the baby?" she asked.

The colonel, his face grim, made no answer. Miss Gow had already told him the awful news. Running to a closet, he seized his rifle and disappeared in the darkness outside the house.

Dressing frantically, his wife started a search of the house. There was no sign of the baby. Once she fancied she heard a cry near a window, but found it must have been only the wind.

The safety director said today it was his plan to paint woodwork on the outside of the building as well as the inside and to have the entire job completed in time for the observance of hospital day early in May.

The men were first put to work washing the walls and woodwork and the entire interior of the building from the basement to the third floor were washed. Additional men were then added to the force and they were put to work painting the walls and woodwork. Cream colored paint was selected for the woodwork, with the exception of the operating rooms and halls on the second floor where the same green is used for the walls, providing a cool, restful effect.

JURY HEARS APPEAL IN INDUSTRIAL CASE

Mrs. Effie G. Stratton Sues for Compensation for Husband's Death.

Whether Effie G. Stratton is entitled to participate in workmen's compensation because of the death of her husband, Arthur V. Stratton, April 19, 1930, after an injury while allegedly in the employ of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. was being considered by a common pleas court jury today.

The widow contends that her husband was struck by the handle of a rammer while working on a shovel, and that the injury developed into a cancerous condition which caused his death. He was the only support of herself and their three children, she asserts.

The action is an appeal from the industrial commission, which refused her claim for compensation. The law firm of Carhart, Warner & Carhart, Marion, is counsel for Mrs. Stratton. The Marion Steam Shovel Co. is represented by the firm of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery.

The Prudential Life Insurance Co., a defendant in the case of Bibler against Weisent and others, was granted judgment for $2,260.50 against George E. Weisent and Eva C. Weisent in the same entry. Sale of property involved in the action was ordered if the Weisents do not pay the judgments. If sale is made, costs of the case, taxes due on the land, the insurance company's judgment and the plaintiff's judgment were given priority in the order named.

The Stars Say—
For Wednesday, March 16

THE planetary configurations bearing rule on the events of this day may be interpreted as fairly fortunate for general affairs, private as well as business. The former interests may prove to be of paramount importance, with much stirring in social, domestic, artistic and affectional associations. However, new undertakings may be profitably launched, but sign all writings and documents with care against misrepresentation and fraud. Guard against accident.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a fairly eventful, interesting and successful year, with private affairs claiming much of the attention, although new projects may be launched under favorable auspices. Sign all papers with precaution and be on guard against sudden adventures and accidents. A child born on this day should be amiable, friendly and socially popular. It should do well in art or literature, possibly of an occult or psychic nature.

Notable nativity: Elsie Janis, actress.

MARCH LION'S ROAR BOOSTS RELIEF NEED

Calls for Aid Increase with Mercury Drop; Supplies Run Low.

The rest of the March lion recently brought to the office of the Family Welfare society a large number of calls for assistance in the way of warm clothing and bedding. Although a generous amount of articles were contributed during the drive last month the supply in the commissary has dwindled and there is again a scarcity of clothing bedding and household articles welfare workers say.

Articles for which there are immediate necessity and which are very scarce on the shelves of the commissary are men's clothing of all kinds, children's and women's stockings particularly the former, house dresses, boys' blouses, children's shoes, baby beds and high chairs.

Although a number of the women who apply for assistance at the commissary are willing and glad to work the scraps and clothing which cannot be repaired or made over, into comforter tops and also repair what clothing they can, there still remains a great need for women to sew, it is announced.

Articles of clothing are always needed or made over before being placed on the shelves for distribution and for this reason an appeal is made for women of the city to assist by contributing their time and work.

Funeral Rites Held.

KENTON, March 15—Mrs. Ella N. Mason, 51, passed away at her home here of heart trouble. She leaves her husband, Joe H. Mason, a daughter, Mrs. Laura Madden of Pleasant township, three brothers, Lewis Giberson of Toledo, William of Lakewood and Joe Giberson of McDonald township. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon.

Female births were in a majority, there being eight female and three male births.

Deaths were caused by nephritis and dropsy, terminal hypostatic pneumonitis, meningitis, uterine poison, chronic endocarditis, interstitial nephritis, acute nephritis, arterio sclerosis, influenza, heart failure, chronic myocarditis, diabetes and mumps.

What kills the younger generation? Why the wild tales of escapades which often end in tragedy?

And why is there so much more discord than ever before among married people that often leads to separations or divorce court?

A great Battle Creek specialist found that so many of these cases occur among girls and older people afflicted with goitre. He tells all about it in his book—sent FREE.

Goitre Poisons Victims

Even before the goitre is large enough to be seen, it can fill the system with poisons which act on body mind and nerves like a terrible exciting drug.

It excites the emotions. In the young it gives rise to abnormal cravings which lead to shocking consequences. The finish may be a complete mental and physical breakdown.

Representatives from granges in the western part of the county were guests when the six eastern granges of the county met for the exemplification of degree work last night at the Claridon school building with United Grange No. 1904 as host. The meeting was the second of a series which Mariel, Kirkpatrick, Progressive, Whetstone, Bethlehem, and United Granges are sponsoring. More than 300 members and visitors were in attendance.

Work in the third and fourth degrees were conferred on a class of 18 candidates by United Bethlehem granges and members of Whetstone grange presided for the opening and closing of the meeting. Harry Warden, deputy master of Crawford county, scored the three granges in their work.

Guests included representatives from Mt. Olive, Bowling Green, Grand Prairie, Salt Rock and Montgomery granges. Following the work a social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Announcement was made of the second meeting of granges of the western section of the county March 23 when Mt. Olive grange will be host at its hall in Green Camp. At this time Grand Prairie grange will open and close the meeting and officers from Bowling Green grange will confer the third degree on a class of candidates. dead were revealed. It became known that police had asked all keepers of incinerators, in hotels, apartment houses and city institutions to watch for bundles containing baby clothes.

When asked about this, police merely replied, in an official bulletin:

"No orders have been issued for any recheck of incinerators in this vicinity."

Tonight it will be two weeks since the world famous infant was stolen from his crib. Police have exhausted hundreds of false clues, rumors and fantastic tales.

Advisees of the parents pinned their chief hope on possible opening of negotiations with the kidnappers through the undercover agents, Morris Roemer, Irving Blits and Salvo Spitalo, but if these men have begun to solve the mystery, it is being kept dark. Roemer visited the Lindbergh home last night.

The latest "gang" to come under the police scrutiny was cleared quickly of all implication. Detectives had announced that a group of hoodlums had come from Denver by plane and engaged in "mysterious activities in and around New York."

Later they announced they had vindicated "Roma and associates" from any connection. They did not say who Roma was. In Denver, a Joseph R. Roma, reputed gang overlord, who recently took a plane trip to New Jersey, said any mention of his name was "Zilly."

The police checked and found nothing in reports that the baby was aboard a ship, that it was in houses in Baltimore, in Lexington, Ky., and in Jamaica, Queens.

WORLD MOURNS LOSS OF GEORGE EASTMAN

"Work is Done," He Writes, Before Ending Own Life.

Let in his heart, Eastman had left a note addressed to "my friends, said:

"My work is done. Why wait?"

Feared Invalidism

Dr. Dudley D. Stewart, the industrialist's personal physician and close friend, said Eastman feared invalidism as the years crept upon him. He had been ill a long time, and Dr. Stewart said, had been thinking for several months of ending his life.

In the last few years, Eastman had gradually withdrawn from the Eastman Kodak company, the $200,000,000 concern he organized with money he began saving as an office boy at $3 a week.

Thomas Alva Edison was one of Eastman's closest friends and co-workers.

His millions multiplying, Eastman began giving them away. He gave the University of Rochester alone more than $35,000,000, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology $19,000,000. He distributed $6,000,000 in personally-owned stock among Eastman Kodak employees, and founded dental clinics in many European cities at a million or more apiece.

He was born in Watervliet, Oneida county, N. Y., and went to work at 14 after his father died.

How "Hobby" Led to Eastman Success

As a young bank clerk who enjoyed amateur photography, but hated lugging around the heavy equipment necessary for "picture-taking" in that day, George Eastman looked about for something to lighten the burden of his hobby. What he found brought him millions to spend on others as well as on himself.

Eastman heard of a British process for manufacturing dry photographic plates. At that time the photographer, usually an itinerant professional with equipment tied to his back like a soldier's knapsack, had to sensitized his plates by dipping them in a solution of nitrate of silver just before the exposure. This was done in the "dark tent" the photographer set up for the purpose.

Working at odd times in the rooming house his mother kept after his father's death, Eastman experimented with the dry plate method and invented a machine for coating glass plates with gelatine emulsion.

Encounters Obstacles

He began manufacturing the plates, which sold faster than he could make them. In order to expand, he interested a boarder at his home. They organized the Eastman Dry Plate company.

Then came dark days for the youthful manufacturer. The length of time the dry plates would last without spoiling never had been calculated. Thousands of them shipped to jobbers came back worthless. Eastman paid back dollar for dollar and sought a way of protecting his plates from weather and age. He heard of a factory in England where this was being done. Hurrying over there, he worked in the factory for one month to learn the details, then purchased rights to the process.

In 1889, Eastman succeeded in making practicable the first cellulose base for transparent flexible film by dissolving cotton, previously nitrates, in a solution of denatured alcohol. When this was dried and sensitively coated it became film like his company now manufactures.

Meanwhile, Thomas A. Edison, working in his West Orange, N. J. factory to perfect a motion picture machine, heard of the Eastman film discovery and sent his assistant, Dickson, to investigate. Dickson took a strip back and showed it to Edison.

Met Edison's Requirements

"That's it—we've got it" exclaimed Edison.

Since that time Eastman's firm has manufactured hundreds of thousands of feet of motion picture film annually. The purchase memorandum for the first order was kept in Eastman's files, dated Sept. 2, 1889.

He once said he had given his cameras the name "Kodak" because "K" was his favorite letter. He just put a "K" on either end he said, and fitted in other letters that would make a name he could pronounce and meet trade name requirements.

Marion County Dog Gets Extra Tail in Cartoon

Believe it or not, Ripley. He had become flustered over the number of tails on a little fox terrier dog owned in Marion county.

Yesterday's "Believe It or Not" newspaper feature by Ripley carried the picture of "The 2-Tailed Dog of Marion, Ohio" and Ripley explained that the dog has two tails in back and one in front.

The dog, about a year old now, has only two tails. One is in back and the other is a little tail two inches long growing from the forehead, between his eyes.

bergh had made frequent weekend trips to Hopewell, where he had stayed at the Morrow home on the previous two weekends. Col. Lindbergh arrived later that day.

In the evening the baby developed a cold, which grew worse in the next two days. Wheatley, the butler, was sent to a drug store for medicine and waited with the clerk, who said he had similar illness at home. Later he went to the store to buy a thermometer, telling whoever waited on him it was to take a child's temperature.

On Tuesday morning, when the cold still lingered, Mrs. Lindbergh summoned Betty Gow from Englewood and she arrived about 1:30 p. m. with Betty attending to the child, the mother went for a walk in the afternoon and returned about 5 p. m.

Betty sewed an extra flannel shirt for the child and he was put to bed about 7:30 p. m. When he was snugly tucked in, Mrs. Lindbergh left his room before Betty. The window had not yet been opened and the light's were still on.

About half an hour later, while Mrs. Lindbergh was sitting at her desk in the living room downstairs, Betty stopped on her way to the kitchen to say that the child had gone to sleep.

Writing and listening for the sound of Col. Lindbergh's car, Mrs. Lindbergh once thought she heard car wheels turn on the gravel driveway outside. She listened and concluded she was mistaken, for it was not until 20 minutes or so later that she heard his car approach.

They had dinner, sat by the living room fire for a short time, then Mrs. Lindbergh went to her room and the colonel settled down to read. Getting ready for bed, Mrs. Lindbergh found she had left her tooth powder in the baby's bath room. She went and got it without switching on the light.

About 10:30 Betty ran into her mistress' room and asked if Col. Lindbergh had taken the baby. Finding that Mrs. Lindbergh didn't know she ran out and sought the colonel. The mother following, met her husband coming upstairs.

"Did you take the baby?" she asked.

The colonel, his face grim, made no answer. Miss Gow had already told him the awful news. Running to a closet, he seized his rifle and disappeared in the darkness outside the house.

Dressing frantically, his wife started a search of the house. There was no sign of the baby. Once she fancied she heard a cry near a woodpile, but found it must have been only the wind.

MRS ISABEL FREER, an active member of the Marion Association of University Women, gave vividly interesting reviews of "Rogue Herries" and its sequel, "Judith Part," at a meeting of the association last evening with Mrs. Howard Geer of 311 M. Vernon avenue. Thirty-nine were present, including two guests, Mrs. Robert Raub of Muscatine, Ind., and Mrs. Robert Kyes, a former member of the association who is visiting here.

Mrs. Freer pictured the wild carefree life of the vagabond Francis Herries at his ancestral home in England and of his second marriage, at the age of 45, to Marybelle, a flame-haired gypsy girl whom he loved since she was eight. Both die on the day of the birth of Judith, their only child. She inherits her mother's flame-colored hair and impulsive fiery nature, but has the physical features and dominance of the Herries. At 16 she marries a young French rogue and from then is known as Judith Paris. Miss Freer's telling

3 D's Club Meeting

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, wavy hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get a bottle of oil of ordinary liquid ammonia, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid ammonia at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails—Ad.

Lecture-Recital
Club Presents
Canto Singers

ONE of the loveliest programs of their season was given last night at St. Paul's Episcopal church when members of the Lecture-Recital club presented the Canto club as a guest chorus in their regular meeting. The numbers for the most part religious in theme, were appropriately chosen for the setting and were pleasingly presented. Appearing with the chorus were Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford, mezzo soprano, Mrs. Dale W. Yambert and Miss Grace Cooper, organists. Mrs. Doren E. Rea, Miss Margaret Hoover, Miss Pauline Wyatt and Miss Clara H. Leffler, string ensemble. Mrs. Harry T. Williams, Mrs. Clyde T. Coulter and Miss Grace Kline played the accompaniments. The chorus was directed by Ernest C. Carl with Miss Dorothy Briggs as the accompanist.

Miss Cooper opened the program with two organ numbers, "Serenade," Rachmaninoff and "Rhapsody," Cole. The chorus chose for its opening group "Laudamus," an old Welsh Chorale arranged by Protheroe, "No Shadows Yonder," Gaul, and "To God on High," Deacon. Later in the program they sang "Pilgrim Chorus," from Wagner's "Tannhauser" and a seventeenth century chorale, "Te Watchers and Ye Holy Ones."

Members of the string ensemble, under the direction of Miss Leffler, played "Largo," from Dvorak's "New World Symphony," "Minuet" arranged for presentation by string ensemble by Beethoven-Auer and "Morning Mood" from the Peer Gynt Suite No. 1, Grieg-Saenger.

Mrs. Rutherford was heard in Stainer's "King Ever Glorious," from the "Crucifixion," and the program closed with an organ number, "Prelude Easter" Vane.

The audience included patrons and members of St. Paul's parish.

The A pooh-poo, the possibility of really short hair becoming fashionable and popular this season should endear the forehead over the left eye, then curl out softly onto the cheek, filling in the space between the end of the eyebrow and the lobe of the ear.

The second wave, still only slightly indicated, begins in the wind-blown ends just above the center of the eyebrow arch and is a back wave, so that it ends may fall into the windblown arrangement around the fact.

The right side is waved only enough to fit the general contour of the head. A vagrant curl or two may be left in front of the ear to break the brushed-straight-back line, then the hair is waved into the dearly beloved swirl in back as the swirled ends are finally brought together.

A particularly charming hat for this coiffure is fashioned after the lines of a Spanish comb. It has a tight, smooth crown of taffeta to fit the top of the head, but tilted way over to the right side. Encircling this tight-fitting crown is a pleated ruffle of taffeta, turned down to shelter the right eye, but undulating upward on the left side until it flares high into a double.

ANOTHER RUN

Why doesn't she preserve the ELASTICITY*
that makes stockings WEAR?

DOESN'T SHE KNOW what causes those runs that ruin stockings and waste money?

New stockings give under strain, because they are elastic. They stretch and spring right back again.

But if this precious elasticity is destroyed, the silk threads, instead of giving, break under strain. Then come those ruinous runs!

Fit, too, is spoiled. The lifeless threads sag, causing unsightly wrinkles, crooked seams.

Lux is made to preserve elasticity. That is why it offers the sure way to make stockings fit and WEAR.

Wash this 2-minutes way:
1. One teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze through stockings, rinse.
Don't rub with soap suds. It destroys the elasticity of the silk. With Lux there's no rubbing. From a few dry Lux diamonds make a sponge.

Avoid ordinary soap—calomel, potassium chloride, which weakens elastic fibers; Lux has no harmful suds. Lux suds won't stain it's elastic Lux.

Don't use ammonia water—its color. With Lux you get a clean wash—the stockings fit and

Katherine Warns Madge Just in Time To Prevent Dicky Finding Her.

A S HUGH GRANTLAND finished his outline of the plans he had made for Lee Chow's convenience, I felt somewhat as if I were caught in a trap from which there was little chance of escape. Not that I dreaded Hugh's settling down as a neighbor to wait for Marion's eighteenth birthday and the opening of the sealed envelopes in her lock box. The last few minutes had shown me that, though any encouragement on my part would open the emotional gates which he was scrupulously keeping closed, I could always control the situation by preserving a strictly matter-of-fact, though friendly, attitude toward him.

It was not Hugh's attitude, nor mine, that made me suddenly breathless at his perfectly natural request to know the location of some furnished house nearby, where he and Lee Chow could live until the birthday celebration. It was the thought of Dicky's reaction to this proposal that kept me silent during an interval which I knew must appear highly ungracious to Hugh.

The fact that I knew exactly the house for his purpose did not make my problem any easier. The Larches, in which Princess China had lived for a most memorable summer, and which had been the scene of the Britons' gay Christmas party, had stood empty all summer. It would be too large for two ordinary men, but I knew that while both Hugh and Lee Chow could camp and do without comfort indefinitely when on one of their secret expeditions, both were luxury-loving men when at leisure, and that a large establishment would appeal to both of them.

But I did not want to tell Hugh of it. I felt more like impulsive to go a long way off—over a hundred miles—for Lee's convenience.

Madge Telle of The Star. A second reflection convinced me that I must tell her about Lee Chow. I did not tell him of my plan, but I did tell her about it, and she was most sympathetic.

I told her that I had to go to the Britons' old house, and she said, "I know where it is. I'll go with you."

I felt like a hypocrite for accepting the commendation, but, after all, I had been of service to him in the matter, and he need never know how reluctantly I had given him the information upon which he was acting so promptly. I was thankful indeed, for Katherine's entrance almost as he finished speaking until a little private signal of hers for haste told me that Dicky must have returned unexpectedly.

"Thanks so much for helping me, Madge," she said, "but I'm on the job again, and you'd better finish that interrupted nap on the front veranda."

I took her cue, realizing that she was directing me to go through the library door and the living room to the front veranda, instead of leaving by the small study door and the side hall.

"That's advice I'm glad to follow," I told her, and hurried away gaining the shelter of the front veranda without encountering any one. I barely had time to unspool myself in the couch hammock, and to look as if I had been there indefinitely, when Dicky came around the house and up the steps.

"You look comfortable—kind of sleepy," he said lightly as he came over to me. "Where's the house-hold—what's left of it?"

"Doesn't it seem deserted?" I parried. "I'm sure I don't know where the remnant is to be found.

Mother Graham with Faith, I am sure; Katie, I suppose, in the kitchen, my father—I don't know, and Katherine in the library."

"Don't forget the most important of all," he said.

"Jim," I asked with an ingenuous air.

"Why if here isn't the original amaryllis with a party?" he said, bending over me with an air of welcoming an unexpected guest.

"Welcome, little stranger! But let me tell you that you've mistaken your cue. I don't mean Jim. I'm asking after the whereabouts of that sterling man and soldier, Major Hugh Grantland."

Reds View Future Lightly After Trade with Robins

CINCINNATI CLUB IN CONFIDENT MOOD AS HERMAN JOINS CLUB

Howley Predicts Escape from Cellar for Queen City Warriors.

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor
TAMPA, Fla., March 15—The camp of the Cincinnati Reds today buzzed with confidence as Manager Dan Howley expanded on the prospects of climbing out of the National league cellar as a result of the club's sensational six-player swap with Brooklyn.

The deal brings to Redland the assorted services of Outfielder (Babe) Herman, one of the league's heaviest hitters. Catcher Ernest Lombardi and Third Sacker Walter Gilbert in exchange for Tony Cuccinello and Joe Stripp, backstop, and Clyde Sukeforth, backstop.

Having already displayed signs of improvement, the Cincinnati club, in Howley's opinion, is now in a position to go out and slug with any team in the league, without getting any the worst of it.

May Make The Club

"This deal may make the club," declared Dan. "The one thing certain was we couldn't go far with the same outfit we had last year."

Howley has been working an infield consisting of Mickey Heath at first, George Grantham, the former Pirate, at second, Leo Durocher occupying the short field and Andy High on third. It has looked first class. However, the Red leader can try Gilbert at third, experiment with his highly-touted St. Paul recruit Joe Morrissey, at either short or second, and put Grantham on first base if Heath fails to come through.

"Sukeforth is a good catcher but can't stand steady work. Now we have an experienced, first class receiver in Clyde Manion, drafted from Milwaukee, and a hard-hitting, hard-working, young fellow in Lombardi. This boy is only 26 and has one of the greatest throwing arms I have ever seen."

Hurling Staff Doubtful

The pitching staff looks doubtful but Howley insists he isn't worried about it. Discussing this, he said: "Red Lucas and Si Johnson will be better than ever. Owen Carroll looks right to me for the first time in years. Frey, Benton and Rixey ought to go well. If a boy like Walter Hitcher can come through the way he promises to do the pitching will be all set."

Sixth place perhaps is the best the Reds can hope for but their spirit, as well as prospects, appear substantially improved.

BREAKS RECORD

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

A review of the total scores collected by the Harding varsity and reserve basketball teams during the season just completed shows the Presidents with the most impressive record of the last several years. The reserve team went through the season with a perfect record of twelve games won and none lost. The varsity five took part in contests and came out ahead in 12 of them. That's bettering a little better than 66 per cent which is far better than any Harding team in several years.

The Harding reserve squad scored a total of 225 points and had 129 scored against it. This gives the reserves an average of 27 1/2 points a game and allows opponents an average of 19 1/2 points a game.

The Harding varsity rang up a total of 519 points in 19 games and allowed the opposition 408 tallies. That makes an average of 27 4/19 points for the Presidents and gives 21 1/10 to the enemy teams.

And that gentlemen, isn't exactly a bad record for any team, if you ask me. If you don't ask it's still a good record.

The following is a complete record of Harding's scoring activities this season.

When Ostrander High school of Delaware county makes its bid for the state class B scholastic basketball crown at Columbus this week it will be one of the smallest schools ever to compete in a state tournament in Ohio. Only 20 boys are enrolled in the school and the team does not have an inside court to practice on. Through an arrangement with Ohio Wesleyan university the team has practiced once a week on the Edwards court at Delaware.

There must be something in those boys at Ostrander that is not found in an average group of that size. To overcome such a handicap and crash into the state cage tournament is an accomplishment of no small note. Whether or not Ostrander battles its way to the state championship, the team will have set up a record that will bear comparison with the best of them.

SALES FLURRY HALTS RALLY

Shares Gain in Morning, but Advances Are Lost in Later Trading.

NEW YORK, March 15—Another selling in the rails halted in the stock market that selling pressure from Krueger issues in both foreign and domestic markets was slight, but domestic business apparently stood in the way active operations for the share market.

In the morning, several points or so, with shorts in, holding most of the brisk selling came after midday. Morning was mostly lost, and led to a slight recession of 1 to 2 in the previous close in the Steel American Tele-

Telephone Co. Westinghouse, Dupont, Gillette, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chesapeake Corp., Mis-

ouri Pacific preferred, New York

Central, Union Pacific and Santa

Fe. Krueger & Toll and International Match preferred rallied somewhat, then about lost their gains.

Sporadic selling in the railroad issues has been a disheartening influence in the market of late. The formation of the Reconstruction

Finance Corp., by removing threats of receivership, resulted in a friendlier feeling for the carrier securities for a time, but Wall street now loans to the view that it is one thing to preserve the railroad's solvency, and another to restore their earning power. Maintenance charges have been draastically reduced, probably to an irreducible minimum, but the volume of traffic holds at an extremely low ebb. The February operating income statements, soon to appear, will show how much the 10 per cent wage cut has helped.

Eastman Kodak completely regained its stability, after yesterday's drop in light selling in response to the death of its founder.

Mr. Eastman held only 17,000 shares of the stock at the time of his death.

GRAIN VALUES TEND HIGHER

French Increase of Wheat Import Quota Aids Price Advance.

By The Associated Press CHICAGO, March 15—Helped by five per cent enlargement of France's wheat import quota, grain values tended upward today. There were also indications of an overnight improvement of North American wheat export business. Opening unchanged to 1/2 higher, wheat afterward held near the initial figures. Corn started unchanged to 1/2 up and subsequently kept firm.

Raising of the foreign wheat quota in France made the total 30 per cent allowed to be mixed with native French wheat. Acting also as a stimulus to buyers was a Kansas official statement saying extensive injury to the wheat crop in the western third of the state was probable because of lack of moisture together with recent severe cold. In addition, advises from a leading crop expert said that crop prospects from Dodge City, Kas., to Dallhart, Tex., were generally poor, and that if rains delayed much longer, a large amount of acreage would likely be a failure.

Further upturns in wheat values ensued as evidence accumulated that liquidation by wheat holders was over for at least the time being. In some quarters the drastic decline of wheat prices following the defeat of wets in congress was regarded as having been too drastic. It was contended by bullyish traders that the ballot represented a gain of 100 wet votes in the last two years, and that this indicated a wet victory next November. Corn and oats followed whilst wheat.

Provisions sagged with hog values.

Merchant, Verburg Take City Health Board Posts

Council Approves Appointments by Mayor Philians; Safety Director Murphy Asks Council for Five New Traffic Lights from Gas Tax Funds.

The appointment by Mayor W. C. Philians of Harry J. Merchant and Martin Verburg to succeed Dr. S. W. Mattos and Frank O. Tuttle, respectfully, as members of the city board of health was confirmed by city council at its meeting last night. The appointments were confirmed by city council at a regular meeting last night.

Dr. Mattos who resigned at the meeting of the board last month would have completed his term Jan. 1, 1933, while Mr. Tuttle's term would have expired in 1935. He resigned to accept a position as assistant to Relief Commissioner C. M. Tobin.

Creates New Post

Council also created officially the position of assistant relief commissioner last night. Tuttle was appointed by Safety Director Emery M. Murphy last month under a provision of the state law which gives the safety director the right to act

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Cremulon, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Cremulon is new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Death Drops Curtain on Career of Charles Gano

Well-Known Minstrel Man of Former Days To Be Buried Wednesday.

Death has claimed Charles Gano, Marion's minstrel man. The funeral for the man who for 15 years was manager and a member of the company of the J. A. Coburn minstrels and brought laughs to thousands in his many other years behind the footlight, will be conducted Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Gano had been in ill health for more than two years and recently suffered a stroke of apoplexy. For the past week his condition was serious and Sunday at 3:30 a. m. he died at City hospital. His home was at 268 Superior street.

Has Old Scrapbook Trunkful after trunkful of gay and gorgeous minstrel show costumes, box after box of wigs, and whole settings for complete stage shows, are stored in a room above the garage in the rear of his home. Mr. Gano gave liberally of all his costumes and scenery and of his time and talent, when local shows were staged, and now, his gay trapplings of minstrelsy, will be sold.

Among his most treasured memories of the golden days of minstrel shows is a scrapbook crammed with photographs and newspaper clippings of "Charley" Gano, as his theatrical friends knew him.

The scrapbook tells sketchily the story of his life on the stage "Charley" was once a member of the team of Murphy and Gano, comedians, the Gus Sun minstrels, the Hi Henry minstrels, Gano and York musical act, the Howe, Gano and Walters novelty comedy musical trio and of many other acts which the scrapbook does not reveal.

Mr. Gano was 65 when he died. He was born Charles Edward Gano, on May 18, 1867, in Springfield, O., to Mr. and Mrs. John Gano. His early life was spent in Springfield, but for more than 14 years he had made his home in Marion.

Four years ago his wife, Mrs. Oliver Carbaugh Gano, died. They were married in Covington, Ky., and for years she traveled with him. Mrs. Gano was a native of Marion.
